

8. New Business

- 20-027 Presentation and discussion on amending the zoning regulations to allow cargo containers in zoning districts other than RS-GR and/or lots smaller than 1.25 acres.

Director Kirch gave a presentation on the zoning regulations pertaining to cargo containers.

The commission and staff discussed the direction to staff that led to this discussion. Director Kirch discussed four possible alternatives to changing the code pertaining to cargo containers. He added that his discussion with the city council included that about 50% of the current applications for cargo containers are done after the fact or after the container was placed on the property. He said it was because either people don't know or they chose to ignore the city code. They also discussed that the code doesn't allow for the containers to be stacked and that some like them because they are water proof and can be secured. He said he would like to have the discussion about lot size and if adjusting the allowed lot size is something they would like to recommend. They also discussed how a recent study in the city looked at using containers as alternatives for affordable housing. They then discussed how cargo containers are used as housing nationally and internationally. The commission and staff discussed possibilities of changing allowable lot sizes and classifying these as accessory buildings and if changing the code may or may not complicate the situation. The commission requested information on previous city council and planning and zoning commission meetings. The commission and staff discussed exactly what the city council requested and what prompted the request to review the code.

9. Information and Reports
